COMPUTERS

with TERESA FANKHÄNEL

On March 3rd, Funes will be in conversation with Teresa Fankhänel, curator of the recent exhibition “The Architecture Machine – The Role of Computers in Architecture”, held at the Museum of Architecture of the TU München. Together with Teresa we will talk about the multiplicity of ways in which, since the 1950s, the computer has gradually colonized architecture, in its tools and in its stylistic trends. The pervasive presence that computers have today in architecture raises some important and urgent questions, especially on the ontological differences between computers and architecture. Together with Teresa, we will be faced with $1-million-dollar questions of this kind...

SANDRA MEIREIS, from the University of Kassel, will also join the conversation as respondent.
